

Christmas and New Year's Message, by Christian Laes

Res loquitur ipsa – the thing speaks for itself. These were the first words that came to my mind when considering Euroclassica in 2022. Most of you will have read the notes of the General Assembly, held on 27 August in wonderful Nicosia. I still find the list of our achievements impressive. As for my personal memories, both my Spanish tour and the participation at the Delphi Economic Forum will stick in my mind as most delightful experiences – from a academic and from a collegial point of view.

Should all this make us complacent? Quite the contrary. We continue to strive for the best, and to improve wherever we can. Both the Interactive Map and new book projects will need input and support from all of the delegates and their respective networks. We look for new countries to join us. And we already start counting the days for Iena, our next annual conference, 25-27 August 2023.

As a President, I am grateful for having so many motivated Euroclassicists around me.

Sit Vobis Christi Nativitatis Festum felix, novus annus faustus prosperrimusque!

Christian Laes
President of Euroclassica
23 December 2022.
